Pennsylvania Jewelry Retailer Benari Jewelers to Host Exclusive John Hardy “Artisan’s Touch Event” on October 26th

One of only five independent fine retailers chosen, Benari Jewelers—located in Exton, Pennsylvania—has announced that they will be hosting John Hardy’s exclusive Artisan’s Touch Event on Wednesday, October 26th. The event, meant to highlight the abilities of John Hardy’s Balinese jewelry-making experts, will feature hands-on chain weaving, sketching, and wax carving demonstrations, and, for the first time in the United States, a display of John Hardy’s one-of-a-kind gemstone setting technique.

Starting at 4pm, the Artisan’s Touch Event will feature expert speakers who will introduce participants to the unique manufacturing processes of John Hardy, as well as the designer’s exciting 40-year history, and additional information on the allure and hidden meanings behind everyone’s favorite jewels and gemstones.

When asked about the event, Benari Jewelers’ Store Manager Helen Curran said, “I’m definitely looking forward to it. I’m extremely honored that John Hardy chose us to host this amazing event”. Additionally, longtime Benari customer and fine jewelry enthusiast Vanessa Poe expressed that she is “very excited” about the Artisan’s Touch Event, and that additionally she “can’t wait to learn more about the making of the John Hardy items that I already love so much”.
