Jewelry Design Center Now Offers G-SHOCK Watches to Customers in the Pacific Northwest and Beyond

Visit the jewelry retailer at their showrooms in Spokane and Kennewick, Washington to browse the entire collection of G-SHOCK timepieces today.

WASHINGTON, April 25, 2019 (Newswire.com) - As the go-to jeweler for fine jewelry and luxury watch enthusiasts in the Pacific Northwest, Jewelry Design Center always aims to carry the products their customers adore and enjoy wearing. Earlier this month, the retailer added popular watch brand Casio G-SHOCK to their product mix.

The watchmaker offers a variety of models, which can be found at price points ranging from $99 to $1,000. This makes G-SHOCK watches a great choice for both the beginner watch-wearer and the avid aficionado intent on expanding their collection.

In addition to being easy on the wallet, timepieces from the brand are indestructible, come in a variety of colorways, and can be completely controlled from the owner's smartphone if they wish.

Visit Jewelry Design Center in Spokane and Kennewick, Washington to explore celebrated G-SHOCK collections like G-Steel, Master of G, and G-MS. Each model was designed with the "Triple 10" concept in mind: a watch that can endure a 10 meter free-fall and 10 bars of water pressure, with a battery that lasts 10 years before being replaced. Knowing this, it's little wonder that G-SHOCK is the go-to watch for military personnel, law enforcement officers, and outdoor adventurers the world over.
