The donation ceremony is commissioned by Mr. Kuang Yuanping, Chairman of Cloudeal Intelligent Traffic Technology Inc., and general manager Zheng Siyuan praised the front-line workers' contributions for fighting against the corona virus with actual deeds. Workers, from medical and education to logistics and local communities, fulfilled critical tasks that supported the society and benefitted our lives. It's no doubt we're saluting their efforts and showing our respects.

Mr. Kuang Yuanping, the Director of Australia China Goodwill Association

After receiving the mutton, Wuhan City Management and Law Enforcement Commission, and other units sent letters of thanks as their gratitude, hoping that everyone in this city would maintain firm determination, stay motivated, overcome difficulties and continue to do extraordinary work in their positions to make the city better. In the principle of openness, fairness and justice, these institutes promised to rapidly distribute these materials to the front-line workers.

Zheng Siyuan said, he would continue to stick to the jobs to promote economic development and to participate in public welfare activities to combating COVID-19.
