The 2018 eDiscovery Buyers Guide Arrives – Lex Tech Review Releases the 2018 eDiscovery Buyers Guide – a Resource for Solo to Mid-Sized Litigation Law Firms Navigating the Growing eDiscovery Product and Services Landscape.

New York, New York – January 30th, 2018 – Legal technology professionals, Brett Burney and Chelsey Lambert, have joined forces to release the 2018 eDiscovery Buyers Guide. A shopper’s handbook and educational resource for solo to mid-sized law firms.

The publication is the second installment in the Lex Tech Review Buyers Guide Series. Created at the request of readers following the first edition, the 2017 Legal Technology Buyers Guide published in November of 2017. The eDiscovery Buyers Guide was designed to serve as a shopper’s handbook for solo to mid-sized law firms in search of options that fit their budget and average case size.

An often-overlooked segment of the market, law firms of less than one-hundred-fifty employees are frequently unaware of the latest eDiscovery products and service providers available to them. Both authors share a passion for serving this group, delivering CLE’s on legal technology throughout the country.

“Our mission with the eDiscovery Buyers Guide is to provide more than just product reviews - it's a practical, educational resource that law firms can consult when they need an eDiscovery solution or a provider. Because it doesn’t matter what size law firm you’re in, if you litigate today then you have a duty to be aware of these tools and services and how they can help your client.” – Brett Burney, Principal, Burney Consultants

Free to download, the eBook is divided into the primary product and service categories seen in litigation support process. Which include; hosted solutions, saas platforms, social media evidence capture, service providers, utilities and more.

In addition to a lengthy list of product reviews, noteworthy contributions by some of the litigation field’s leading experts have been added to enhance the value of the guide.

“Brett’s direct experience implementing eDiscovery technologies as both a consultant and litigation process specialist brings invaluable perspective to this project. His fervor for the topic, and extensive knowledge of the product suites jump off the pages of the guide. I look forward to expanding our educational offering with the launch of our corresponding YouTube Channel and product focused blog.” – Chelsey Lambert, Founder and CEO, Lex Tech Review

The integration of technology into daily law firm practices is rapidly increasing, simultaneously the cost of previously out of reach products have become more affordable. Innovation in the litigation support and eDiscovery segment of the market puts the power of artificial intelligence, machine learning and cloud based services in the hands of small to mid-sized law firms. Providers selected to participate in the guide have been vetted to ensure a fit within the intended audience’s average case requirements and budget.

Download the 2018 eDiscovery Buyers Guide for free on the publication’s dedicated website, www.eDiscoveryBuyersGuide.com. Where they will also share information on upcoming events, webinars, CLE courses, and speaking engagements.
