

AG Scientific, Inc. Announces Agreement of Acquisition by RPI

San Diego, CA - March 1, 2021 - For Immediate Release

Dear Valued Partner,

We are thrilled to announce RPI's recent acquisition of AG Scientific, Inc. For over a quarter century, Chip Lindgren and the team at AG Scientific have been dedicated to providing an unrivaled customer-centric experience within the life science and research industry — and that doesn't stop now. Effective March 1, 2021 we will continue operations as AG Scientific, LLC — a subsidiary of RPI. AG Scientific has agreed to be acquired for an undisclosed amount.

This acquisition is reflective of the rapid expansion of RPI's global sourcing network. RPI and AGS have maintained a close partnership throughout the COVID-19 crisis by working in tandem to supply critical components for diagnostic testing. The team at AGS will continue to supply superior quality chemical components and provide custom packaging and labeling options from our site in San Diego, CA. Additionally, we are now able to offer all services under the umbrella of RPI.

RPI is a family owned business established in 1970 with a focus on specialty products for life science research. RPI has since grown to become an international organization with manufacturing and distribution facilities in the U.S. and abroad. The acquisition of AG Scientific expands RPI's footprint across the United States.

Please process the following changes to the organization:

AG Scientific, Inc. to change name to AG Scientific, LLC

Together, RPI and AG Scientific maintain a commitment to providing the highest quality products at the lowest possible prices. We will not be making any changes to our Quality Processes or to our day-to-day practices. Additionally, you can expect the same level of customer service. We will continue to serve as your ally in discovery.

As a trusted partner we are committed to ensuring this transition will be as smooth as possible for you. If you have any additional questions, please don't hesitate to reach out.

With Gratitude,

Chip Lindgren, Founder, AG Scientific
Matt Chudy, Director of Operations, RPI
