

2015 RRH Sustainability Report Press Release

Richmond Road Holdings, a privately held New York based energy services holding company, recently released its 2015 Sustainability Report. The company who owns and operates both Kiwi Energy and Spring Power & Gas was proud to announce that it reached its goal of carbon neutrality for 2015, 2016 and is on track to achieve this for 2017.

Sustainability is at the core of Richmond Road Holding's key values. Its strong focus on products and services to support this initiative is reiterated in their recently released 2015 Sustainable Report, detailing the commitment to sustainable business operations. From procurement to internal operations, and environmentally focused non-profit partnerships, their vision is always considered in every aspect of the business model.

Richmond Road Holdings sustainable strategy focuses on several key policy principals and goals that ensure it serves customers, employees, investors, stakeholders and the environment. Richmond Road Holdings strives to conduct business in the highest ethical standard possible and promote a focus on the environment among staff, customers and the wider community.

To achieve these goals, Richmond Road holdings commits to the following principals: to provide customers a superior service and innovative energy solutions, comply with regulations that affect its businesses, provide unwavering support to communities in which its businesses operate and to have its businesses be the premier choice for environmentally conscious energy solutions.

Sustainability reporting ensures that organizations like Richmond Road Holdings consider the impact they have on environment, evaluate current practices and establish short and long term goals to improve these practices. This Increased transparency leads to better decision making, which helps bring a positive impact to the company, staff, stakeholders and ultimately customers.

"Our purpose is fundamentally grounded in sustainability; we're proud of our success in 2015 and 2016 but we are aware that there's room for improvement. A major benefit for us has been integrating a process of continuous evaluation that improves our day to day operations now and for the future." said Richard Booth President of Retail Operations, Richmond Road Holdings

Richmond Road Holdings is a privately held New York based company operating energy retail businesses across several states. These brands include Kiwi Energy in New York and Spring

Power and Gas in New Jersey and Maryland. The Ecogold loyalty program services these companies as a value-added rewards program offering a retail benefit for customers.