PRESS RELEASE

Dean Smith and Active Air Freight Succeed Against Libelous Comments

Dean Smith of Active Air Freight has successfully defended himself against a series of libelous comments perpetrated against him and his company. Through the anonymity of the Internet, a person without any experience whatsoever with Active Air Freight posted untrue accusations regarding its customer service, and its manager Dean Smith, on various consumer complaint sites. For the last few years, attempts to remove these falsehoods by polite request and legal means were unsuccessful. A recent court decision, however, changed the digital landscape and opened the way to correcting a terrible wrong.

As a result, with the help of legal representation, Dean Smith was able to demonstrate in court that the accusations made against him and the company were baseless. At that point, a judge issued an injunction to have the comments removed from the offending websites. While other Dean Smith's in the United States may likewise face issues from such unfair actions on the part of unscrupulous people, Dean Smith of Active Air Freight no longer faces a spot on his company's, and his own, excellent record of community service and customer satisfaction.

If you need the assistance of experienced personnel to ship your critical and valuable goods around the world by air, sea or land, Active Air Freight is prepared to assist you with quality transportation that sets the standard for matching the best available costs with the best available service.
