COUNTERING REVISIONISM: ENGAGING NEW GENERATIONS IN MEMORY, TRUTH AND JUSTICE AROUND WORLD WAR II HERITAGE

International Seminar to Share Best Practices in World War II Heritage and Youth Engagement

The event will be live streamed and accessible to all.

In recent years, aided by new media and communication technologies, challenges to conventional understandings of World War II narratives at heritage sites have emerged, some of which include underrepresented voices and experiences related to the war that can enrich our understanding of this history, as well as others that manipulate historical facts and spread disinformation that perpetuates bias and discrimination.

Under these circumstances, Sites of Conscience and other cultural and heritage sites are perfectly positioned to spark community dialogue that amplifies marginalized voices, assesses the damaging strands of revisionism, and promotes truth-telling – leveraging the lessons of the past to foster free, just and democratic societies. By recognizing all victims of the war and engendering compassion and new understandings of shared values across diverse audiences, these sites contribute to a deeper understanding of World War II and its contemporary legacies.

To highlight best practices and deepen the role of Sites of Conscience and heritage sites in both the promotion of more inclusive narratives and the countering of revisionist narratives of World War II, the International Coalition of Sites of Conscience and Seoul National University are hosting an international conference at the Rubin Museum of Art on July 7, 2022.

In 1945-46, the Nuremberg trials charged representatives of the Nazi party for criminal offenses in World War II. Today, the Memorium Nuremberg Trials, a Site of Conscience located at the historic venue, shares the background, conduct, and subsequent effects of the trials with the public. Photo credit: National Archives. The interior of the barrack apartments at Manzanar War Relocation Center. In 1942, the United States government ordered more than 110,000 men, women, and children to leave their homes and detained them in remote, militarystyle camps. Manzanar War Relocation Center was one of ten camps where Japanese American citizens and resident Japanese aliens were interned during World War II. Today, Manzanar is a Site of Conscience.

The day-long event will feature presentations by representatives of Sites of Conscience and other cultural and heritage sites that share underrepresented narratives related to WWII, offer strategies to promote more inclusive histories for future generations, and provide tools to counter historical revisionism. The event will be accessible to a limited number of inperson guests, and accessible to all through a livestream. In addition, a roundtable discussion with youth from around the world will explore the importance of war heritage, the power of memory, and the ways that youth can take leadership roles in continuing these vital conversations. Videos from Sites of Conscience in ten countries will also be shown, each sharing reflections from youth about the role these heritage and memory sites can play in countering revisionism.
